

April 6 Event Once Again, the Communist Party

The PCTE overflows in its presentation in the Ateneo of Madrid

This past Saturday, April 6, the Communist Party of the Workers of Spain held its debut in Madrid with a big presentation of the organization, under the slogan: Once again, the Communist Party.

A meeting with international scope that took place in the auditorium of the Ateneo of Madrid bringing together more than 300 people, exceeding the capacity of the legendary cultural institution of Madrid.

The event involved prominent representatives of workers' collectives in struggle, such as Óscar Abanades, from the trade union section of Workers' Commissions (CCOO) in PSA-Peugeot, Natacha Sánchez, from Carrefour in Struggle, Víctor Manuel Pascual, Secretary General of the trade union section of CCOO Telefónica Madrid, or Daniel Andrés, from Coca Cola in Struggle.

Addresses were also made by Javier Martín, General Secretary of the Collectives of Young Communists (CJC), and on the part of the international delegations: Rafael Zequeida, representing the Communist Party of Mexico; Guido Ricci, member of the Political Bureau of the Partito Comunista (Italy); Giorgos Marinos, member of the Political Bureau of the Communist Party of Greece; and Kemal Okuyan, General Secretary of the Communist Party of Turkey.

Finally, Ástor García, General Secretary of PCTE and candidate of the Party to Prime Minister of Spain intervened. In his speech he presented the master lines that define the project of the Communist Party, on the basis of Marxism-Leninism, and the proposal of the PCTE not only for the elections but for all the struggles, under the slogan "A country for the working class". With regard to the motto of the meeting, "Once again, the Communist Party", Ástor García enumerated the great number of reasons for forming and reaching a strong Communist Party again in Spain, as well as to avoid the false calls to unity with the old and new social-democracy that have no other objective than the management of capitalism.

With this meeting, PCTE highlights the strength with which its acronym breaks into the Spanish communist movement, becoming the main communist candidacy for the General Elections.
